

raided in the Bronx last night. The agents found in the place in quart bottles labeled whiskey fifty gallons of colored wood alcohol of the deadliest quality. The saloonkeeper, whose name was not revealed by the authorities, admitted that he intended putting the stuff on sale to-day for the New Year celebration. He said he bought it for pure whiskey and was ignorant of its character.

Capt. R. F. Turner and two detectives from Passaic came to New York last night with two men named Hopper and Morris, under arrest for passing counterfeit money in that city, and caused the arrest by Detective John Stein of the New York Homicide Squad of Giovanni R. Locicero of No. 237 Elizabeth Street, a dealer in wines and olive oils. The detective said Hopper pointed out Locicero's store as the place where he bought imitation whiskey which, after being resold at least twice, found its way to a saloon in Passaic, eight patrons of which have died in the last forty-eight hours.

Twenty-five gallons, in two, a half barrel and several demijohns were seized by the police in the Locicero place and will be analyzed to see if the stuff is "murder whiskey."

The Philadelphia authorities reported the deaths of three women and a man including a "Miss Williams" of New York yesterday after drinking what they supposed was whiskey from a bottle which was apparently brought from New York by Miss Williams. The others who died were Mrs. Amelia Davis, Mrs. Frances Hurley and William P. Gates.

TWENTY-TWO UNDER ARREST IN CONNECTICUT.

The number of persons under arrest to-day by the taking into custody of Samuel Darling and Max Saunders, truckmen, who are charged with having guilty knowledge that the contents of barrels they carried were contraband under the law.

There were two more arrests in New York last night on account of the campaign against "murder whiskey." Detectives Pettit and Hatto and Federal Inspector Dobbs arrested Edward G. Ware of No. 190 State Street, Brooklyn, said to be a brother-in-law of Saleeby, the druggist already under $25,000 bail, and Salvatore Esposito of No. 120 Mulberry Street, Manhattan.

Saleeby, the Brooklyn druggist who is under $25,000 bail on a charge of implication in the conspiracy to sell wood alcohol whiskey in Connecticut and Massachusetts, informed The Evening World to-day that the revenue agents have done him and his brother-in-law, Ware, a grave injury. He claims that Ware is being held without evidence and that no charge has been made against him.

"I had nothing to do with the alleged conspiracy and do not know Romanelli, the undertaker," said Saleeby. "On Dec. 20 a man unknown to me brought me some liquor in a bottle and asked me to analyze it. I said I would have an analysis made and sent the stuff to Bendiner & Schlesinger, chemists, at Tenth Street and Third Avenue. They reported that it was wood alcohol and poisonous."

"The man who brought in the liquor did not return in person, but he telephoned me the next day and I told him what the chemists had reported to me. That is the extent of my connection with the case, if it is a connection."

Ware was held in $25,000 bail this afternoon by United States Commissioner McGoldrick in Brooklyn. His examination was set for Jan. 8. The charge is implication in the wood alcohol conspiracy.

The arrests were made, the police stated, on the strength of statements made by Adolph Saleeby, who was one of the first alleged poison peddlers arrested and is also under $25,000 bail. Esposito is charged with having sent three barrels of composite liquor to Hartford, but denied it vigorously.

The Massachusetts and Connecticut authorities announced that they would insist on murder indictments for all charged with selling the "whiskey" that caused so many deaths in those States, and would try to obtain the death penalty for those convicted.

The authorities who found eighteen barrels of poisoned "whiskey" yesterday are searching for the gang that intended to sell it for beverage purposes. Two revenue agents discovered it by accident. They were in an east side saloon when they heard a man boast he knew where alcohol was being sold for $1.00 a barrel. They followed him outside and found he had four barrels on a truck.

The revenue men soon located fourteen barrels and seized them, making eighteen with the four on the truck.

When the fluid was examined it was found to be "completely denatured alcohol" of the sort most generally used by motorists to make "anti-freeze" mixtures which are put in radiators in winter to keep the water from congealing. This stuff consists of 90 per cent. grain alcohol (non-poisonous), 10 per cent. wood alcohol and a trace of material called "paradine," which is put into the alcohol to render it nauseating and therefore non-drinkable.

But according to the experts on Col. Porter's staff, means have recently been found to overcome the taste and smell of the "paradine." It has been disguised with perfumes and sweetening fluids, so that the resultant mixture, properly colored, might pass for whiskey. There was no doubt that these eighteen barrels were to be sold for whiskey, Col.

NEW REGULATIONS FOR UNDERTAKERS IN FORCE TO-NIGHT

Health Board Formally Adopts Rules, Following Evening World Disclosures.

The Board of Health, meeting this afternoon in the offices of Commissioner of Health Copeland, adopted the new regulations governing undertakers in the city and announced they will go into effect at midnight. Such changes and additions to the Sanitary Code as were necessary to make them effective were made. These changes will now give the city control over undertakers, which it has not had heretofore.

The new regulations are the direct outcome of the disclosures brought out by The Evening World's investigation into the hurried and secret burial of Mrs. Anna Callies on a false death certificate and burial permit without the knowledge and consent of her daughter. The name of R. J. Kelly, adjuster of the Terminal and Town Taxicab Company, one of whose cabs caused the death of Mrs. Callies, appeared as the son-in-law and nearest relative of Mrs. Callies in the records filed by George H. Kelly, an undertaker of No. 237 Columbus Avenue, whose firm conducted the burial.

All undertakers, under the new section, must make a sworn affidavit on every death certificate and before removing a body from the morgue must swear they have been authorized to do so. This gives the city power to prosecute criminally. Only a misdemeanor charge was possible under the old system.

The new regulations require that a body be held for seventy-two hours before an order for burial is given by the Public Administrator. The Medical Examiner will not issue orders for removal of bodies to the morgue. The Police Department will deliver all personal effects to the Public Administrator and give immediate notification of identification to the morgue keeper.

The regulations of the Board of Health adopted to-day were formulated, following a request by the Mayor, at a meeting of six of the city department heads Dec. 24. A new section was added to the Sanitary Code, requiring every undertaker to be licensed and obtain a permit from the Board of Health before he can do business. A monthly fee of $100 for this privilege will be the undertaker from practice.

A committee of twelve, representing the Undertakers' Association of Manhattan, together with the President of the State Board of Embalmers at Albany, met Commissioner Copeland yesterday afternoon and put their approval on the new rules.

EDISON COMPANY BONDS OPPOSED

Brooklyn Concern's Counsel, Answering City, Hints at Shutdown.

Deputy Public Service Commissioner Edward L. Glennon held a hearing to-day on the application of the Brooklyn Edison company for permission to issue $5,000,000 worth of bonds to pay for improvements the company says it has made. He deferred decision.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Vincent Victory, for the city, protested against the bond issue on the ground that the company had never obtained a proper franchise. "Does the city stand ready to hand out candles for light and treadmills for power if the Brooklyn Edison 'shuts down'?" asked Vincent. "If the city is to be the company's creditor, it should be ready to take the place of electric light."

"Well," retorted Mr. Moran, "the city is putting in old buses to take the place of the street cars and I thought it might be planning to put in candles to take the place of electric light."

County Court Clerks Sworn In. County Clerk William E. Kelly of Brooklyn to-day reappointed John L. Gray as Chief Clerk of the County Court and Timothy E. Griffin as Deputy Chief Clerk of the County Court. They were sworn in shortly after the adjournment.

Porter believed, else no such price as $1.00 a barrel would be asked for it. George Anderson, one of the Federal experts who is familiar with wood alcohol and its results, said: "One drink of such a mixture as this would blind a man; two drinks would blind a man; three drinks would blind a man;
